LVC Faculty Members Receive Wide Variety Of Honors and Awards

TWO SCIENCE PROFS EARN PH.D. DEGREES

Jacob L. Rhodes, chairman of the physics department at LVC, will receive a doctor of philosophy in physics degree on Saturday, February 8, from the University of Pennsylvania during their convocation.

Dr. Rhodes prepared a dissertation entitled "Energy and Angular Distribution of Photoprotons from Nitrogen 15" during the course of his study.

A graduate of Lebanon High School and of Lebanon Valley College, Dr. Rhodes served as an assistant instructor and a research fellow at the University of Pennsylvania and as chairman of the physics department at Roanoke College in Salem, Virginia.

At present, he is a member of the American Physical Society, the American Association of Physics Teachers, and Sigma Chi.

In the chemistry division of the science department Dr. Richard Neithamer received his Ph.D. in inorganic chemistry in June, 1957, from Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana. He received his B.S. in chemistry from Allegheny College, Meadville, Penna.

In graduate school Dr. Neithamer held an assistant teaching position and a Dow Chemical Company Fellowship.

"The Densities, Surface Tensions and Related Properties for the Binary Molten Salt System Potassium Chloride-Potassium Sulfate between 791-1138 Degrees Centigrade" was the title of Dr. Neithamer's thesis. This subject is in the general area of High Temperature Chemistry.

Another very recent highlight for Dr. Neithamer was his marriage to Jeanette E. Burton, who teaches in the music department at LVC, on January 25 in Lancaster. Mrs. Neithamer holds an M.M.E. degree from Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, Louisiana. She is also supervisor of student teaching in the elementary grades.

OTHER COLLEGE PERSONNEL RECEIVE HONORS

Several other members of the LVC staff were honored recently by their election or re-election to offices in educational and athletic groups.

President Frederic K. Miller was re-elected secretary of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities at the annual meeting of the group in Philadelphia.

Scholarship Weekend Attracts 135 Students to Take Tests

Dr. Fetter To Speak For REW Activities

Jack Stearns, Chairman of the Religious Emphasis Week Committee, has announced that Dr. C. W. Fetter, pastor of the First EUB Church of Akron, Ohio, will serve as speaker for REW events to be held March 3-6. Dr. Fetter will speak on topics within the general theme of the week, "A Challenge to Your Maturity."

Dr. Fetter, who originally hails from Manheim, is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College and Bonebrake Theological Seminary (now United Theological Seminary). He also received a D.D. degree from Otterbein College.

As a leader in denominational activities Dr. Fetter is secretary of student work and a former director of adult work in his conference. He has also served on the general commission on ministerial training and is currently serving as a member of the general commission on social action.

Also active in community affairs, Dr. Fetter has served as president of the Akron Ministerial Association and as vice-president of the Akron Council of Churches. At present he is serving on the Summit County Council for the Retarded Child.

Dr. Fetter is no new-comer to Religious Emphasis Week work. He has previously been speaker for REW activities in Indiana Central College and Otterbein College, also in the high schools of Indianapolis, Indiana.

Annual Winter Retreat Is Scheduled For SCA

The Student Christian Association has planned its annual winter retreat for February 14 and 15 at Belaire Park, four miles north of Carlisle.

Those attending will leave campus at 5 p.m. on Friday and return at 7 p.m. on Saturday in time for the basketball game with Gettysburg.

The speaker for the program will be Rev. J. Anthony Cunio from Carlisle. Rev. Cunio, a graduate of the Reformed Episcopal Seminary in Philadelphia, will present three messages. There will be small discussion groups with student leaders followed by an informal question and answer session with the guest speaker.

New Method Planned For Music Auditions

Plans are nearly completed for the 1958 Scholarship Weekend program to be held Saturday, February 22. Five full-tuition scholarships, valued at $2900 each, and eleven half-tuition scholarships, valued at $1450 each, will be awarded to deserving students.

In organization the program will be much the same as last year with a general psychological exam in the morning and the competitive departmental exams in the afternoon. Tours and interviews will be interspersed throughout the morning and afternoon.

A tour and coffee hour have been planned by Dean Faust for the parents while the students are taking the exams.

A total of 135 students is expected from a wide area including New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania.

A breakdown of the number of students taking exams in the various departments is as follows: 13 in biology, 18 in chemistry, 22 in English, 2 in French, 9 in American history, 29 in mathematics,

Glee Club, Orchestra, And Quartet To Give 15 Concerts On Tour

Dr. James Thurmond, director of the Lebanon Valley College Glee Club, recently announced that the group will make its annual tour of central Pennsylvania and Maryland from February 7 to 15. The Glee Club will present 15 concerts in the 8 day period.

The complete entourage will include not only the 44 voice Glee Club but also a clarinet quartet and a 15-piece orchestra all under the direction of Dr. Thurmond.

The Madrigal Singers, a small group within the larger vocal group, will present selections from the pen of Wilbye and DePearsall. Compositions by Mendelssohn and Schubert will be featured by the clarinet quartet, while the Glee Club itself will sing numbers from the works of Victoria, Gibbons, Bach, Schuman, Rossini, Reed, Kubik, and Scott.

Soloists for Bach's "Jesus, Thou My Wearied Spirit," are Sally Ann Miller, Mary Elizabeth Swope, Tatsuo Hoshina, and Joseph Frazier. Charlotte Pierson will be the soloist for the "Inflamatus et Ascensus" from Rossini's Stabat Mater.

Jan. Commencement Grants Eight Degrees

Eight students received degrees at mid-semester commencement exercises held in the audio-visual room of the Gossard Memorial Library at 11 a.m. on Saturday, January 31. These were the first mid-term exercises to be held at LVC since World War II. About 100 people attended.

Barbara Schwaghart Bird of Pennel, Pa., Thelma Hauer Drum of Annville, and Mary Ellen Risser each received Bachelor of Science degrees in elementary education.

B.S. degrees in economics and business administration were awarded to Drew Terry Fetterolf of Annville, Warren Redding Heidelbaugh of Camp Hill, Vincent Paul Lupo of Trenton, New Jersey, and Thomas Evan Cooper of Delta, Pa.

Theodore Lewis Blumenthal received a B.S. degree in music education.

President Frederic K. Miller presented a brief address and awarded the diplomas to the graduates. Assisting the president were Dean Howard M. Kreitzer, Dr. Maynard Sparks, college chaplain, Dr. Gilbert McKlveen, class adviser, and Dr. George G. Struble, secretary of the faculty.

College Receives Aid From Two Foundations

Lebanon Valley College has received two grants from foundations during the month of January.

From the E. I. DuPont de Nemours Company, Inc., came $2500 for the chemistry department and $1500 "to strengthen the teaching of other subjects which make a significant contribution to the education of scientists and engineers." LVC was one of 135 colleges and universities sharing in $1,150,000 distributed under DuPont's annual program of aid to education for the 1958-59 academic year.

The Gossard Memorial Library received a "sub-grant" of $500 from the Association of College and Research Libraries from funds granted by the United States Steel Foundation "to strengthen or modernize library, teaching, or learning tools." After adding an equal amount to this grant, the library will purchase the 160-volume Catalogue of Books Represented by Library of Congress Printed Cards Issued to July 31, 1942.

The "New" Marking System

Lebanon Valley College has initiated what appears to be a new marking system in straight letter grading. What has actually happened is that the college is proceeding according to the original plan as stated in the college catalog.

Some students have been uttering questioning remarks to the fact that they are losing out when making a plus grade and having it recorded as the same straight grade as someone else making a minus grade.

In the first place you may find that where you seem to be losing on a plus grade or are probably gaining on a minus grade.

Also, in the past there has been a disparity between the quality point average and the numerical average percentage wise.

For example: a C or 2.0 quality point average is needed to graduate. Yet a student could have a low C numerical average and still not have the required quality point average, going by the old system of a C— = 72, C = 75, and C+ = 78. This student could have 9 credit hours of D+ and 6 credit hours of C, obtain a 70 or low C numerical average, yet have only a 1.5 quality point average.

This old system produced a mass of confusion not only for students, but also for faculty members.

Under the present system A = 4, B = 3, C = 2, D = 1, and F = 0 quality point averages. This avoids the confusion of one letter grade equalling three different numerical percentages and only 1 quality point average.

We hope that this brief explanation will help alleviate some of the fears raised concerning the new rating system.

New Course Offered In Reading Improvement

The psychology department has announced a new course being offered this semester called Developmental Reading. This course, to be listed as Psychology 10, will be a three hour non-credit course and may be carried over and above the regular academic load.

The purpose of the course is to improve reading speed and comprehension of both poor and good students. Lab equipment such as reading accelerators and tacistoscopes will be used.

There will be two sections of 15 students each. One will be held during the day at 3 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. The other section will meet on Monday and Thursday evenings. (This last is subject to change.)

The class will start next week. If the sections are not filled, students who wish to enroll may contact Dr. Jean O. Love of the psychology department.

Developmental Reading will be taught by Mrs. Carroll Colgan who received her M.A. from Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

SCHOLARSHIP WEEKEND

3 in physics, 3 in political science, and 1 in Spanish.

In the music department 34 students will audition. There has been a change in auditioning procedure which will make the auditions less formal, provide more atmosphere.

Three jury groups have been set up for preliminary hearings. The first group, Voice, is composed of Mrs. Neithamer, Mr. Crawford, and Mr. Rovers. The Keyboard group consists of Mrs. Knisley, Mr. Fairlamb, and Mr. Campbell. Dr. Thurmond, Mr. Stachow, and Mr. Lanes compose the Orchestral instruments group. All three groups will function at the same time. A fourth area of sight-singing will be conducted by Mrs. Bender and Mr. Smith.

The faculty feels this system will be a distinct improvement over the past practice in which the entire faculty heard all auditioners in all areas, thus hearing over 100 performances. The time was limited to each student and judgment was difficult.

With the jury approach there is more intimate contact between auditioner and faculty. This will also provide more free-

da Vinci Model Display Attracts 1500 Viewers

Almost 1500 persons attended the display of Leonardo da Vinci models which was on exhibition in the library basement from January 6 to 24.

Dr. Anna Faber, assistant professor of English, originally planned the display as a project for students in the humanities course. As plans materialized, it was discovered that the display would have to be opened to the public over a period of three weeks if brought to the campus.

Public response was tremendous, as cited by the total above. Fifteen public school groups and twenty church groups made arrangements to see the display.

Three newspapers—Harrisburg, Lebanon, and Lancaster—sent photographers and reporters to cover the exhibition. Lancaster television station, WGAL-TV, also reported on the display.

Business and professional groups of the area received invitations in addition to pastor and lay delegates of the Pennsylvania Conference and East Pennsylvania Conference of the E.U.B. Church.

The thirty-five models displayed in the audio-visual room of the Gossard Memorial Library were built by Dr. Roberto Guatelli and are circulated to art museums, college campuses, and other cultural centers by the Fine Arts Department of the International Business Machines Corporation as a public service feature.

dom, a greater chance to speak personally to each student plus a greater degree of specialization since each faculty member is in his own particular area.

Juries will hear auditioners from within reasonable traveling distance on Friday afternoon and those from greater distances on Saturday morning. Each jury will select its most potential applicants for the final audition before the entire staff on Saturday afternoon.

The Student Christian Association is sponsoring registration and activities under the direction of Jack Stearns, president, and Dr. Sparks, adviser.

From Green Blotter - - -

Although many new members have been added to the Green Blotter Club during the first semester of this year, there are several vacancies yet to be filled. If any student would like to submit material for acceptance, please place it in the Green Blotter mailbox in the Student Personnel Office or give it to Dr. Struble.

The following poem was sent to Dr. Struble, Green Blotter adviser, from Stanley F. Imboden, a student at Temple University School of Theology and graduate of Lebanon Valley College, class of '55.

COUNT DOWN - - -

POISED, it waits while man absolves it with its vaporous breath below. Now, a silence. Then, explosion! Swirling flames and tracers go.

SWIFT, the mighty dart streaks starward, flitting, vaulting through cold sky.

GONE, where automation leads it with the X, the root, the pi.

PANIC smites a distant city.

High the crack of sonic thunder. Mother shields her blameless baby trembling 'neath this misused wonder.

FISSION heats the devastation

Blisters writhe on twisting steel. Once, a city. Now Inferno. Human depravation's seal.

HAPPINESS—A POETIC SYLLOGISM

Everyman tends happiness with lust
That sears and burns his cool-moist logic-sense.

Hot happiness 'scapes reach; its flame is thrust,

Yet of itself or substance none is, hence,
Everyman is duped by what is not,
But some men are happy in the farce.

IN ANTICIPATION

Selfish people, can't you see,
Can't you grasp eternity.
God can't sit and watch you grow,
There are other fields to sow.

People tell us, that is all,
Tiny people, very small,
Who hold a glass above their head
To fill the ignorant with dread.

"Once we get there," they will say,
"We'll change the natives to our way.
We'll build a church upon their ground
And bring in God to pass around."

Selfish people, can't they see,
Can't they grasp eternity.
If God is more than just a name,
He was there before they came.

Student Math Chapter Holds First Meeting

The organizational meeting of the Philip S. Davis Chapter of the Industrial Mathematics Society was held Tuesday, January 14, in room 17 of the Administration Building. The chapter, which was named in honor of a prominent Lebanon attorney, was addressed by Dr. Barnard H. Bissinger, chairman of the department of mathematics, and by Mr. Grant Heck, chairman of the Organization Committee.

After the appointment of Mr. Robert Wagner, assistant professor of mathematics as faculty adviser, nominations and elections were held for the various chapter offices.

Those elected were: Grant Heck, senior math major, president; Earl Edris, senior physics major, vice-president; Edward Anderson, Jr., senior math major, secretary; John Ray, senior physics major, treasurer; and Warren Wenger, senior math major, Student-Faculty representative.

The chapter which is unique in that it is the first of its kind in the Industrial Mathematics Society, expressed its purpose to increase "understanding of the role of mathematics in America today."

After a plea was extended by the founding members and officers to any interested students to attend the chapter's February meeting, the meeting was closed.

High Percent of Women In Intramural Sports

Half the total number of women students on LVC campus are reported participating in intramurals in the Women's Sports division.

Thirty-six girls were given WAA credit for field hockey.

In table tennis there are 111 players and 108 in badminton. Semi-finalists in these games compete on All-Sports Night.

The winning team of the volleyball games—first floor Mary Capp Green combined with the former Sheridan Annex team—will play a game on Intramural Night, possibly with the boys. The team, which has won all six games, is made up of Rhen, MacDonald, Lynch, Fuller, Black, Maguire, Hartman, Simes, Rice, Burras, and Stamm.

In basketball 34 women students reported for practice in preparation for the 1958 season which begins on Saturday, February 15. The team has been narrowed down to the following: Upperclassmen guards—Angle, Evans, Noll, Simes, and Sprenkle; Upperclassmen forwards—Black, Hartz, Hill, Howell, Lynch, White, and Woodley.

Possible Freshman guards are Kohr, Leith, Myers, Ovates, Taynton, and Walter; Freshman forwards—Cassel, Hartman, Maguire, and Peters.

Linta Announces Date For Annual Intramural Sports, Awards Night

Ned A. Linta, director of the Intramural program, recently announced that Intramural Sports Night will be held on Thursday, May 8.

The list of trophies that will be awarded on sports night is headed up by the intramural plaque on which is engraved the champion's name. There is another trophy for overall supremacy. League trophies include those for the winners of basketball, soft ball, volley ball, and bowling.

Individual trophies to be awarded include those for squash, badminton, golf, handball, table tennis, tennis, and bowling.

The remaining awards are the medals for co-rec supremacy in badminton, golf, table tennis, bowling, and tennis. All these awards are on display in Mr. Linta's office for all those interested in seeing them.

Mr. Linta announced that the basketball standings at the end of the semester were as follows:

TEAM	W	L
Day Students	5	1
Knights	4	1
Kalo	4	1
SCA	4	2
Legionnaires	1	3
Philo	1	4
Residents	0	5

Mr. Linta said that in order to be in the roll off for co-rec bowling all couples must bowl three series. As of semesters the standings are as follows:

Crudele-Arthur	832
Nassaur-Cassel	790
Heidelbaugh-Fenstermaker	712
Argenziano-Evans	694
Ogden-Scarpa	692
Dick-Lynch	663
Danfelt-Simes	638

In the men's handball tournament the winner of the Grider-Murray match will meet the winner of the Nassaur-Groft match in the finals.

For squash Jack McDonald has earned a berth in the finals and will meet the winner of the Lester Miller match. Miller's opponent will be determined by the Hernberg-McLinn match.

A notice was issued from the intra-

Newcomers, Hard Work Give Brighter Outlook To Coming Mat Meets

Coach Ellis McCracken recently predicted that the addition of two newcomers, Karl Wesolowski and Bruce Ris-miller, plus a lot of hard work by the entire squad should give more success to LVC wrestling during the second semester. McCracken said that even though the mat team did experience a slump following the Christmas holidays he considered this largely due to academic difficulties. He noted that the squad, which is the first in Valley sports annals, is very fortunate in that it has enough men to fill all weight classes.

The LVC grapplers have their next scheduled match with the Albright Lions on Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. with the Valley serving as host. The Lions come into this match with a win over LV to the tune of 28-8. Freshman captain Dave Miller has been the only consistent performer for the Valley.

With recent trend being toward initiation of wrestling in high school and college Lebanon Valley has decided to add encouragement by inviting all of the wrestlers and coaches from local high schools to attend Saturday's match. Coach McCracken is hoping for a good turnout.

mural office that the third round of the men's badminton and table tennis must be played by February 7. If these matches are not completed, byes will be declared.

Mr. Linta and Miss Bowman both urge that the remaining co-rec badminton and table tennis matches be completed because the rounds are now behind schedule.

Dutchman Basketball Enters Home Stretch

As the Lebanon Valley Dutchmen go into the home stretch of the 1957-58 basketball campaign there is little hope for anything brighter than the fans have already witnessed. Bothered by lack of height and by poor shooting ability when it counts, the Dutchmen have thus far turned in a 1 and 11 record.

By the time you receive this paper the Blue and White will have traveled to Hershey to meet E-town to whom they previously dropped a 94-89 decision in a double overtime contest here at the Valley. The Jays will probably have made use of the limited services of play maker and sparkplug Jim Sarbaugh who was missing from the first contest due to a fractured leg. Jim Chase might also have seen limited action because of his previous injuries.

On Saturday, February 8, the Dutchmen will play host to the Dickinson College Red Devils of Carlisle. In their previous meeting this season the Dutchmen dropped a 73-65 decision to the guests. With the advantage of the home court the Valley should make this a close one. The contest will be interesting since the Devil's captain is Ray Weaver, one of the leading scorers in small college basketball.

Following the Dickinson game four of the remaining six games will be home contests. There will be games with Gettysburg, Albright, Hofstra, and Rider.

REW Events Feature Interviews, Banquets

During the week of March 3-6 SCA will "Challenge your Maturity" when it again helps to present a week of religious emphasis here at LVC. The main speaker for the week's activities will be Dr. C. W. Fetter, Pastor of the First E. U. B. Church of Akron, Ohio.

Dr. Fetter's first address will be at an informal reception at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, March 3. This reception is a familiar event of R.E.W., but it has a new aspect in that it is open to all students and not just to the student leaders.

Besides presenting the three convocation addresses, Dr. Fetter will also be the guest speaker at the special banquets, including the Day Student Banquet—for which reservations can be made at the Chapel Hour on Feb. 25—the Faculty Banquet, and the Ministerial Banquet, which will be held for the ministers and their wives of our college territory who will again be guests of LVC.

Students may have the privilege of talking personally with Dr. Fetter at the various scheduled interviews by making arrangements with Joan Turner or Kenneth Troutman. For those who may not have scheduled an interview but still wish to talk with Dr. Fetter, R.E.W. has another new feature. During the Interview Hour at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday, March 4, anyone may talk with Dr. Fetter without appointment.

One of the most popular features of past Religious Emphasis Weeks, namely the Skeptic Hours, will be held on Tuesday March 4, and Thursday, March 6.

On Tuesday, March 4, at 9 a.m. students will be free to ask any questions they may have at the discussions which will take place in the various dorms under the leadership of visiting campus leaders who have been chosen because of their work in their respective churches.

The students will be able to raise further.

Chem Club Sponsors Science Panel, Mar. 13

"The Effects of Scientific Accomplishments Upon Religion and Society" will be the topic of a panel discussion to be held on March 3 at 7:45 p.m. in Science Hall. The panel is being sponsored by the Chemistry Club and will include four departmental chairmen from fields related to the topic under discussion.

Serving as panel members will be Dr. Jean O. Love, psychology; Dr. Carl Y. Ehrhart, philosophy; Dr. Francis Wilson, biology; and Dr. Barnard Bissinger, mathematics. Professor James Kline of the chemistry department will serve as moderator.

The event is open to the public.

Lounge Receives Check To Boost Construction

The College Lounge was recently given a boost by the gift of a check from Mr. Charles H. Horn, the LVC alumnus and trustee-at-large from the E.U.B. Church in Red Lion, Pa.

Mr. Horn, class of 1919, has been vitally interested in the college for many years. One of the social rooms on the main floor of the Lounge will be dedicated in memory of Mr. Horn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Horn.

In behalf of the student body La Vie extends deep gratitude to Mr. Horn for this gift.

Gene Layser Enters History Honors Plan

Professor Ralph Shay, acting chairman of the department of history and political science, has recently announced that Gene R. Layser, a junior, is the first student at Lebanon Valley to enter the honors program in history. This program is open to all majors in the history department who meet the academic requirements of an honor student and who make application by the end of the first semester of their junior year.

To participate in the program, Mr. Layser must carry out an extensive research project and prepare a paper covering his subject by the end of his senior year. Following the completion of his paper, he must defend it orally before the dean of the college and the head of the department.

Besides being an honor student Mr. Layser is an active member of Pi Gamma Mu, the social sciences honor society, the Knights of the Valley, and the Legionnaires. In addition, he is president of the Political Science Club and treasurer of the Men's Day Student Congress.

Pi Gamma Mu To Hear Hershey Corp. Speaker

Herbert A. Vernet, Director of Labor Relations for the Hershey Chocolate Corporation, will speak on the problems in labor-management relations at the regular meeting of Pi Gamma Mu on February 25 at 7 p.m.

The program, which is being held in the audio-visual room of Gossard Memorial Library, will parallel a similar talk by a representative for Armstrong Cork Company who spoke before the club last year.

Court Members Chosen

Janet Lee Blank of Lehigh, Pa., will preside as Queen at the annual May Day festivities on May 3. The results of the election for the May Day court have been announced by Miss Betty Jane Bowman, Director of Women's Athletics and Chairman of the May Day committee. Janet is an elementary education major in the college.

Elected as Maid of Honor is Ruth Reddinger of Cleona. Ruth is one of LVC's nurses.

The remainder of the court will include four majors in the department of music education and two in the department of elementary education.

The music students are Dorothy Jones, Littlestown; Harriet Mickey, Chambersburg; Sally Miller, New Cumberland; and Mary Swope, Annville.

The elementary education majors are Virginia Smedley of West Chester and Elizabeth Speicher of West Lawn.

The theme selected for the May Day program will be Colors in relation to moods and emotions.

5 Colleges To Join In International Weekend

Lebanon Valley College will be the host on March 1 and 2 for the annual International Weekend. Students from five colleges, including Elizabethtown, Franklin and Marshall, Millersville, Albright, and Wilson will take part in these activities.

The purpose of International Weekend is to gain a greater understanding of the inter-relatedness of our countries and to further the interest of our own students in the World Student Service Fund.

Among the countries which will be represented are Greece, Jamaica, China, Switzerland, Africa, Korea, Belgium, Thailand, Estonia, and Iran.

The program will include a round-table discussion and special worship services. All students of LVC are invited and urged to attend any or all of these functions. A schedule will soon be posted.

Reminder: Water color paintings by Dr. Jean O. Love, chairman of the psychology department, are still on display at the Annville Library for the remainder of February. The public can see the paintings during the regular hours of the library: Monday through Friday, 3-5 p.m. and 6:30-8:30, and on Saturday, 9:30-11:30 a.m.

Changes Announced For LVC Science Quarters

One phase of the current Development Program on the Lebanon Valley campus has been construction and rearrangement of facilities in the Science Department.

An integral part of the moves in the science division was accomplished last year when the Chemistry Department moved into its new quarters in Science Hall. At first the department was occupying only the completed organic and inorganic laboratories; additional facilities in the rear of Science Hall are nearing completion during the current month.

Students will soon begin moving into the new quantitative analysis lab, which will offer space for 52, and the new physical chemistry lab, which is constructed to handle ten to twelve. An advanced research lab which is equipped to handle three students is also nearing completion. The new instrument lab will house the department's automatic-recording, double-beam infra-red spectrophotometer, polarograph with photographic attachments, electro-analyzer, refractometer, photoelectric colorimeter, visible and Beckman D. U. spectrophotometer, and several other instruments. Facilities for student and faculty analytical and research experimentation will also be offered.

A proposed animal room for the keeping of live experimental animals has not been completed so quarters originally provided for the yet incomplete darkroom are serving temporarily.

The increased space and better physical plan will enable the chemistry department to graduate twelve students per year with a B.S. in chemistry and provides a total of sixty additional lockers.

PHYSICS DEPT. ACQUIRES OLD CHEM LABS

The space in the Administration Building recently vacated by the chemistry department is being remodeled into facilities for the physics department. The old chem labs and storage space in the basement will become labs for study of electricity, atomic physics, optics, and radioactivity. Additional basement space will be converted into a darkroom and shop.

First floor quarters, which will be completed about April 1, will contain a seminar room, general lecture room, departmental office, storage room, and a general physics lab.

New facilities will enable the physics department to handle about twelve majors per class per year.

Welcome, Travelers . . .

Old timers say we don't have winters like the old days when they were kids. Maybe so, but the weatherman really gave us something to tell our children about when he saw fit to send us the worst snow in twenty years. And right before Scholarship Weekend! But as the old saying goes, "The show must go on!" Trite, but to the point.

To those of you who have braved the wintry blasts and snowy roads, we extend our welcome. We're glad you could visit us, even if it's just for a little while. In this short time during which you will be at Lebanon Valley, we hope you will feel that you are a part of our campus community.

To a high school student looking on from the sidelines, a college may seem vastly different from what he has known in the past. Living away from home, meeting new people—these and all the other experiences which come with being a college student may seem far away to you now.

Yet it is only a matter of time before you will be making your decisions, if you have not done so already. When that time comes, we'd like you to remember the day you spent at Lebanon Valley. Then come back and spend four years with us.

Chaplain's Notes

The annual winter retreat of the Student Christian Association was held near Carlisle, Pa., on February 14-15. A series of three messages by the Rev. Anthony Cunio, of Grace Chapel, Carlisle, highlighted the program. Discussion groups directed by students paid particular attention to the Gospel lesson in John 15:1-17.

Louise Gay, a junior student in the music department, attended the sixth conference on Religious Vocations for College Women from February 14-16. The conference was held at Union Theological Seminary in New York City. Louise is a member of the Pomeroy Methodist Church in Coatesville, Pa., and is an active member of the Student Christian Association cabinet on campus.

A special observance of the Universal Day of Prayer for Students was held in the Youth Assembly room of the College Church on Sunday, February 16. The service was led by Robert Landis, Bible Study Chairman of the Student Christian Association.

Members of Delta Tau Chi participated in a devotional service for the guests of the Methodist Home at Cornwall, Pa., on Thursday, February 20. The program will feature a panel discussion.

The chapel service for the annual Scholarship Weekend will be held in Engle Hall on Saturday, February 22, at 9 a.m. Greetings will be extended to the visiting students from the Reverend Thomas S. May, assistant to the President.

The Clubhouse

The Political Science Club meets tonight, February 21, for its first banquet of the academic year. The dinner, to be held at the Annville Legion, begins at 7 p.m. Guests have a choice of lobster tail or turkey dinners.

LVC Chem Professor Attends Conference

Dr. Howard A. Neidig, chairman of the chemistry department of Lebanon Valley College has recently participated in the discussion on chemical education at the second Delaware Valley Regional Meeting of the American Chemical Society. The meeting was held at the Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia on February 5.

Dr. Neidig acted as co-chairman of the symposium for undergraduates on the subject "The Graduate Program in Chemistry" in the morning and later was chairman of another symposium concerning "The Undergraduate Curriculum in Chemistry." He also contributed a paper to this symposium on the subject "An Introduction to the Concept of Research in Beginning Organic Chemistry."

Math Society Features Guest Swedish Speaker

The Philip S. Davis Chapter of the Industrial Mathematics Society highlighted its second meeting on Thursday, February 13, with the presentation of two speakers, Mr. Carl Leijonhufvud and Mr. Philip S. Davis. Mr. Leijonhufvud is a native of Sweden, and Mr. Davis is a Lebanon attorney whose special interest is mathematics and after whom the chapter was named.

After Mr. Davis had thanked the chapter for the honor bestowed upon him, Mr. Earl Edris introduced the guest speaker, whose subject was "The Swedish Educational System." Following his talk Mr. Leijonhufvud answered questions concerning his topic.

AN ANALYSIS OF MAN

Why I am, what I am no one really knows.

What I do, how I feel, almost never shows.

The fact remains I do exist

If God alone it knew

There is no riddle who I am

I'm no one else but you.

—Harry R. Mercer

RAINY OCTOBER

Rainy October spreads her veils

Of sweeping rain

Throughout the trees' bright colors,

Each sheet of whipping rain

Drains more and more

From those bright colors

Until, by November,

There remains nothing

Save

Some stark, bare, brown-black limbs.

—Jack Markart

THE COAT

The settling of the winter's

Thick, white coat of snow

Begins to filter through

The cool, crisp autumn sky—

The wearing of long winter's gown

Is begun in the mists of the summer.

When the mist lifts from the meadow,

Where does it go?

To the ample arms of nature,

To weave Miss Winter's nice, new coat.

When the first grand showing of that coat comes,

It's beautiful—for an hour.

Then today's moderns rip and slash,

Smudge and dirty that beautiful white coat

That the mists made.

CHANGES ANNOUNCED

department on the second floor will move the psychology lab which is currently sharing space with the optics lab in the basement. The present inconvenience to both physics and psychology will be remedied, and the psychology department will be provided with additional storage space sufficiently close to their new lab quarter to prevent mass moving of equipment as is currently necessary.

In addition the second floor area will permit the department to handle increased numbers of students in the experimental psychology course from which twelve students had to be turned away due to current lack of space.

Long range objectives for the department include possible occupation of a portion of the present biology quarters on the third floor instead of temporary arrangements at the second level. Since the biology department is in the process of making plans to move to the second floor of Science Hall, the psychology department hopes to acquire space on the top floor of the Administration Building.

Listen, Skeptic!

Skeptic, I want only sincerity from you. Others might approach with devout faith and naivete, in which they are happy and content; but it is difficult for you, Skeptic, with your intellectual sophistication and severe self-honesty. Cynicism will engulf you if you are not careful. So I ask only for sincerity. Approach with your doubting and stinging questions, but approach with sincerity.

If you are sincere you will ask questions, difficult and biting though they be, which will show within you a desire to discover some truth. Curiosity will be yours and not a desire to confuse and confound with your intellectual acumen. You will approach with no thought of being duped; yet you will have respect for what you have not discovered or for what you have not honestly been able to understand. You will recognize that there are some who, in addition to intellect, have within them the function of faith; and you will not entirely cast away the possibility that such a function might at some time in the unknown future exist within the framework of your own personality.

What is it that I would have you approach with sincerity? It is Religion. I would ask you to bring your critical mind and its workings to bear on that which is slightly beyond the strict critical approach. I would ask that you apply your talent for analysis to a subject which cannot be completely analyzed. Do not think I would have you become intoxicated with the uninhibited musings of mysticism and emotionalism or be opiated by the languid hopes of actionless belief. No, Skeptic, you must now, more than ever, descend upon this subject without reserve and with keen and piercing eye. Only that you are sincere and intent upon making decisions—that is all I ask.

On this campus there will exist in a few weeks an atmosphere extremely conducive to your meeting this challenge—and this is by all means a challenge. I dare you, Skeptic, Intellectual Sophisticate, Liberal, whatever you call yourself, to give sincere consideration to the relation of your life to Religion. I dare you to marshal all of your intellectualism in order to face the problem squarely.

The time and place of this challenge will be Religious Emphasis Week, Lebanon Valley College. (Cynics not admitted.) (SRS)

In January the Childhood Education Club heard Mrs. June Moyer, head of the enriched program in Derry Township schools, speaking on "The Gifted Child."

The Elementary Education Club met on February 20 in a unique annual meeting. Speakers for the evening were Miss Nancy Kirby, class of 1956, and Mrs. Miriam Schwab, class of 1957. Both women are now teaching in elementary schools. They discussed their problems and teaching situations for the group.

Intramural All-Star Team Picked To Meet Jr. Dutchmen Sat. Night

Early this week the Intramural Council under the supervision of Intramural Director Ned A. Linta picked the 1958 Intramural All-Star basketball team. The team under the direction of Coaches Joe Verdone (SCA) and Phil Niosi (Philo) will meet George Mayhoffer's JV's as a preliminary game to the varsity contest with Hofstra. The game will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The members of the All-Star team were picked on their all around ability shown throughout the whole season. Each league team, under the stipulations of the Council, is represented by at least one player.

The Knights are represented by Giovinnazzo, Reinhart, and Smith. Resident Students have Badgley as their only representative. SCA, like the Resident, team has only one member in Wolfe. The Legionnaires are represented by Schuster. Day Students have Arnold and Kristich. Kalo placed two with Lavery and D. Miller. Philo rounds off the squad with its two members, Etter and Buckwalter.

Seven players received honorable mention, Cassatt (Res), Stauffer (SCA), Lambert (Leg.), Kauffman (DS), Wernert (Kalo), Hovis (Philo), and Ollinger (Philo).

LVC To Play In 1958 Rotary Bowl Game

Athletic Director and head coach Ellis R. McCracken announced recently that a four-man committee appointed by the Athletic Council have completed negotiations with the Middletown Rotary Club in reference to the 1958 Rotary Bowl game to be held on November 15 at the Middletown High School Athletic Field. It has been decided that the Dutchmen will definitely compete in the contest. The Ursinus College Bears will be the visiting club as Lebanon Valley was designated the home team.

The committee that represented the Dutchmen was composed of Coach McCracken; Mr. Ivan Moyer, College Treasurer; Dr. Cloyd Ebersole, President of the Athletic Council; and Dr. G. A. Richie, Secretary of the Council.

ALBRIGHT GAME FRIDAY

A recent bulletin from the Director of Athletics' Office stated that the basketball game against Albright College that was to be played Monday night will be definitely played on Friday night, February 21, weather permitting.

RECORDS—Jim Lebo, bowling for Legion A team, set a new record for the three game high series at 580. Argenziano and Schuster are tie for individual game average with 206.

Individual Work-Outs Start For Track Boys

One could say that spring is just around the corner. If they did there would be a few here at the Valley to disagree, but that is just what track coach Ned Linta is thinking. Coach Linta has his track candidates going through their paces even at this early date. All the work done by the candidates is on their own. But as one might see, any work will help the candidate's chances to participate in his desired event.

When asked about the preliminary conditioning program Coach Linta said, "The purpose of the conditioning program is to attain a basic physical condition, poise and grace of movement, symmetry of body, and agility in action."

To accomplish these ends Linta explained that a program of indoor work as a whole has been initiated. This indoor work includes stretching exercises, specialized individual weight training, and work on form. The only outdoor work is a cross-country run of about four miles.

Linta said, in reference to the team's fortunes, that the squad consisting of twenty-eight candidates seems to be the better one in his two years of coaching here at Valley. He said that there is a good cross-section of candidates in the

Howell High Scorer In Win Over Moravian

The LVC Dutchgirls swung into the 1958 basketball season with a win over Moravian College on February 15. Working together on a strange court, the Valleyites pulled into a five-point lead in the first quarter, then dropped behind 16-15 at the end of the half. Against a team whose forwards made every shot count, the LVC team fought hard to tie the score at 31-31 in the third frame and to emerge victorious in the fourth, 45-38.

Taking scoring honors for the game was Moravian's Jones with 17 points. Valley's Ruth Howell totaled 15 counters, with 13, 9, and 8 for Donna Hill, Eleanor Black, and Sally Lynch, respectively. The winning guards deserve much credit for working well against a team of guards who possess speed and endurance.

different events.

Linta also ventured to say that Capin Aubrey Kershner will no doubt lead the team, but added that he will be pressed by Giovinnazzo, Butz, Kilmoyer, Magnuson, Holstein, Keinard, Zechman, Hecker, and S. Hoffman.

In the distances John Salem will get support from Gerberich, Harlacker, Murray, Dickey, Rich, Schaffer, and D. Miller.

Barring inclement weather, the game with Hofstra College, New York, will be played in Lynch Memorial Gymnasium Saturday, February 22.

Barb Johnson Elected At I.C.G. Conference

"Our purpose is not to preach or teach, but merely to provide a means by which a student can learn government."

These words are the motto of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government, popularly known as I.C.G., which was held at Gettysburg College on Saturday, March 8. Members of LVC's Political Science Club were among the many schools which participated in this annual event.

During the year the club members were able to prepare for the conference by their studies in the various committees formed. These committees are similar to the Congressional committees on foreign affairs and the like.

This year the I.C.G. regional conference was a model national congress comprised of ten major committees. At the morning session the students presented their individual bills, which had been previously prepared in their respective college meetings, to a committee.

The bills which passed the committees were sent to the general assembly which was "in session" in the afternoon. If these bills were in turn passed through the general assembly, they were figuratively made "laws."

Besides the passing or rejecting of bills, the morning activities included the election of a speaker and a clerk who are elected by the politicians, as in the U. S.

Outstanding Students Win Scholarship Awards

Results of the scholarship competition held on Feb. 22 have been announced by the admissions office. Contestants this year presented a most outstanding array of academic achievement.

Of the 214 students who took the morning aptitude test, 12 were in the 99th percentile or better, 45 were in the 95th percentile or better, and 81 were in the 90th percentile rank or better.

Five full tuition scholarships were awarded to the following students: Darlene Horst, Lancaster; Mary Lemke, Steelton; Edward Mirmak, Lancaster; Karl Reighter, Harrisburg; and Margaret Seaber, Rothsville.

Half-tuition scholarships were awarded to 11 outstanding competitors: Doris Horst, Lancaster; Barbara McClean, Philadelphia; Annette Kurr, Robesonia; Elwood Kerkeslager, Jonestown; Benjamin Fischer, Newark; Donna Bressler, Selinsgrove; Barbara Wogisch, Berghfield; Constance Myers, Harrisburg; Anthony Sciotti, Lebanon; John Seymour, Dauphin; and Eva Gruber, Newark.

Renovation Progresses In Lounge Basement

Work in the basement of the College Lounge is beginning to shape up into a nearer semblance of the finished product. Natural knotty pine wood (which will darken with age) is being used to cover the walls.

Booths will be placed along the sides of the center hall. One of the two side rooms will contain ping pong and pool tables. In the other side room will be tables and chairs where refreshments may be consumed.

New lighting is being installed and everything is being rewired. Acoustical tile ceiling is being used to cut down on noise.

A bar of stainless steel, covered with pink formica, contains a grill, sundae-making area, refrigerator, sinks, and other necessary utility areas.

Concrete has been poured for the steps to the rear entrance and a hand rail is due to be installed soon.

By this LVC students can see that the College Lounge is no longer so much in the nebulous future. Progress is really being made with much more in the offing.

College Church Oratorio Presented For Easter

The Senior Choir of the College Church will present the oratorio, "The Creation," by Haydn, on Sunday morning, March 23, at 10:30. The choir is directed by William Lemon and is accompanied by Ruth Killian, organist.

Soloists for the oratorio include Mary Bryce, soprano; Nevelyn Knisley, soprano; Miriam Lemon, soprano; Mary Swope, mezzo-soprano; Jacqueline Kleiser, contralto; Geraldine Ehrhart, contralto; Tatsuo Hoshina, tenor; and Stewart Goodman, baritone.

The public is very cordially invited to attend.

ATTENTION, SENIORS! If you wish to purchase commencement announcements, please contact:

Charles Brightbill

The price is 17 cents each.

To all MARRIED SENIORS: you may bring your wife or husband to the President's Dinner, May 23, 1958.

LVC will commemorate the anniversary of its Founders' Day on March 18 at 10:45 a.m. The term Founders' Day, according to Rev. May, is actually a moment wherein the birthday of the college is celebrated. It is the annual remembrance of the founding of Lebanon Valley College.

This commemoration has become an annual part of the life and program of LVC with outstanding personalities being invited to speak. The program may vary from year to year.

With the completion of the new dining hall, future Founders' Days may include a banquet with various school leaders present or the whole college family.

Dr. Frederic Miller, who will preside at this year's day of commemoration, will introduce the guest speaker, Dr. Harry Victor Masters, president of Albright College. The worship service will be conducted by Dr. Sparks and musical selections will be given by the College Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. James Thurmond with David Schell as organist.

Dr. George Struble, as college Marshall, will confer the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Lt. Col. (Chaplain) Earl Emerson Wolf, Tripler U. S. Army Hospital, Territory of Hawaii.

Chaplain Wolf graduated from Lebanon Valley in 1931 with an A.B. degree; from United Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio, in 1934 with a B.D. degree; and from School of Theology, Temple University, in 1940 with the degree of Master of Sacred Theology.

Eight Seniors Honored By Phi Alpha Epsilon

Dr. Anna D. Faber has announced the election of eight seniors to membership in the Phi Alpha Epsilon Society of Lebanon Valley. The new members include Thomas Carmany, Norman Gray, Sandy Stover, David Teates, and James Wolfe, all of whom are majors in chemistry. Others are Darwin Glick, an economics major, and Jack R. Hoffman, a philosophy major. The only girl on the list is Virginia Smedley, who is a major in elementary education.

The new members became eligible for the society on the basis of an academic record of 3.3 out of a possible 4 points for seven semesters of college work. Subject to the approval of the faculty, they were elected by the officers and members of the society. They will be honored at a dinner to be held later this year.

Lectureship Features Illinois Music Speaker

The fifth annual Organ-Choral Lectureship will be held on Saturday, March 15, in Engle Hall. The guest speaker will be Dr. Barrett L. Spach, Minister of Music at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Chicago, Illinois. During the two sessions, 10 to 12 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. Dr. Spach will present a demonstration of representative music for the worship service on the college's four-manual Moller organ.

As in the past, Mr. Ernest Beers of the J. H. Troup Music House will provide an extensive display of the latest church literature publications. As a special feature, the organ and choral materials recommended by Dr. Spach will be available for examination.

Students may register during the coming week in the Music Office for $.50.

Lyric Quintet Presents Woodwind Program

The Lyric Woodwind Quintet from New York City, third in the series of "All College Programs," will present a program of woodwind music on Tuesday, March 25, at 8:30 p.m. in Engle Hall. This group was organized by Claude Monteux in 1956. In 1957 they made a successful debut in Carnegie Hall in New York. Since then the Quintet has been touring the eastern part of the U. S.

The program on Tuesday evening will include selections by Haydn, Hindemith, Milhaud, and Première Quintet by Lanes. Tickets, $1.00 for students and $1.50 for general admission, may be obtained from members of the conservatory.

Chaplain's Notes

Five Lebanon Valley students will be guests of Union Theological Seminary in New York, March 14-16, for the Conference on Church Vocations for college men. Rodney Shaffer, Karl Moyer, Charles Arnett, Norman Plotner, and Walter Smith will attend.

This conference is designed for the purpose of confronting college men with the claims of Church vocations, especially in the fields of the pastorate, teaching, Christian education, and sacred music.

Among the speakers will be President Henry P. Van Dusen, Dr. Paul J. Tillich, Dr. Paul J. Scherer, Dr. Robert McCracken, and Dr. James Robinson.

College men from schools along the Atlantic seaboard and through the Middle Atlantic region will attend.

Congratulations

Pres. Miller has asked La Vie to convey his personal congratulations to each of the 43 students at LVC who made the Heart Fund Drive so successful this year. Dr. Miller was very pleased and grateful for the way the students got behind the drive.

The fruits of their efforts almost tripled last year's results. According to a notice from Dean Martha Faust, Anville's cash collection was $528.37.

La Vie would like to add its commendations also to this show of interest and industry on the part of LVC men and women.

A Goal To Shoot For . . .

Phi Alpha Epsilon, Lebanon Valley's honor society, has just acquired eight new members (see article on page 1.) Phi Alpha corresponds on this campus to Phi Beta Kappa, national honor society. Membership is open to any college student who has maintained an overall average of 3.3 under the present 4 point system for seven semesters. This requirement corresponds to Phi Beta Kappa's standard in the event that such a chapter should be organized on campus.

The 3.3 average is equal to an 88 average which the constitution previously called for. The whole records for students whose averages were under the former grading system were transcribed to account for the changeover. A straight A average is equal to a 95 or 4 point average. A 3 point average equals 85. Therefore, the 3.3 average covers the gap to equal an 88.

Congratulations to our eight seniors who have achieved this outstanding record in their college careers.

The Grey Flannel Philosophy

Unless you were sleeping or studying hard during the Religious Emphasis Week chapel periods last week, the speaker, Dr. Willard Fetter, probably presented many unusual challenges to your religious maturity. In his first address, Dr. Fetter made a comparison between philosophy and religious faith. Everyone must and usually does form some philosophy of life, and most people affiliate themselves with some form of religion. Philosophy in itself is not dangerous or disrupting, but religion can and should be able to disrupt the lethargy of this world. Not all religions do this, however. In order to provide a meaningful faith—one that will keep you stable—it must provide a definite faith, a growing faith, and a committing faith.

God is more than "somebody up there who likes me." He is not "a living doll" as some people have said. He is a God who has revealed himself through human experience and through Jesus Christ. It is good to have a simple, childlike faith, but this simple faith will not aid us in all of life's turmoil unless it grows as we grow and as we increase our knowledge. A mature faith must also commit us to great convictions.

The greatest challenge to one's maturity is to get out of the conformity with the world and conform only to God and His will. Take a look around you. See the gray flannel suits—or perhaps more appropriately, the Ivy League trousers, crew neck sweaters or Ivy League caps. Or watch the person who disagrees with everything that's said, or who continues to wear "pegged" pants after the fad has run its course. There are examples of the blind individuals going overboard to rebel against conformity. Both of these groups fall short of genuine maturity. Education and Christianity should challenge us to lay aside the gray flannel of conformity and the red flag of rebellion and seek to develop our highest potential as we listen "to the beat of the distant drum" of God's will and as we keep in step with Him, even though we may be out of step with the world.

After the speaker had concluded, a business meeting was held with induction of new Pi Gamma members. Gene Layser, Dave Meder, and Dave Long, formerly limited members, were taken in as full members; Tom Reinhart and Bernard Buzgon were brought in as full members.

Also discussed at the meeting were plans for Pi Gamma's field trip to New York on March 15, 16, and 17. The trip is to include a visit to the New York Stock Exchange, Rockefeller Center, a TV show, and other places of interest.

64,000 Questions

During Religious Emphasis Week at Lebanon Valley College the students of the college had many opportunities to question religion in an attempt to strengthen their faith.

Things got off to a flying start on Tuesday at four o'clock when Dr. Willard C. Fetter answered questions in the first Skeptic's Hour. As Dr. Fetter mentioned in a later chapel service, "There certainly were a lot of skeptics at this session."

Moderator, Jack Hoffman opened the meeting. The subject matter of the discussion seemed to flow around four main points—pre-destination and free will, the resurrection of Jesus, limitations of God's power, and the book of Revelation.

Dr. Fetter seemed to believe that our life is determined by three factors—chance, choice, and Providence. He stated that chance, which included heredity and environment, governed our destiny to a great degree.

Did Jesus actually rise from the dead? Was he really dead? In answer to these questions, Dr. Fetter remarked that the Resurrection must be understood in a spiritual realm rather than a physical one. The thought of Jesus was so prevalent.

Honor Students Listed

Dean Kreitzer's office has issued results of Dean's List compilations for the first semester 1957-58.

Fifteen percent of the senior class achieved a 3.3 average or better; 14.5% of the junior class; 9% of the sophomores; and 6.6% of the freshmen. This makes a total of 65 students out of 604 students at LVC or 10.8%.

Wasteful Consumption of the Joy of Life

I moved among the others but failed to hear my voice among theirs, for I could not hear myself above my own speaking. I saw the others but failed to see myself, for I did not look closely enough.

The most evil and wasteful consumption is that of living unaware of one's own self. It is a gracious amount of contemplation and solitude that is required to eliminate this evil.

But we have no time for things such as these. Going and coming are our lot, and we walk the earth as men who die from the inside out. We are blinded by the dazzle of our images as seen in the distorting but iridescence—reflecting mirror of superficial conduct and contact. If we were to look at ourselves from within ourselves, we would see an exciting and beautiful mystery—an admitted abstraction, but somehow meaningful if considered seriously.

I walked along with the others toward many places and many things until one day I forgot the places and the things and thought, "It is I. It is I that am doing this." And I saw the beauty of myself, alone with myself.

In living we consume life; and if there is no deep awareness of that life, the life of the self, then the consumption is wasteful, and a supreme joy is lost forever. There is a great difference between the wasteful consumption of that which is potentially of the highest order of pleasure and happiness, but of which one is completely unaware. The last is by far the greater evil.

I continued to walk among the others but now I began preaching. I did not preach non-conformity, for the others were already individuals and individualistic. It is just that they were not aware. I preached the Self. Unabashedly, I told them of the beauty of their selves.

lent among his disciples that even if he wasn't here physically, his spiritual presence was so real that he actually "lived again."

When asked if he placed any limits on God's power, Dr. Fetter said, "If God isn't limited by something, we have a very definite moral problem in religion."

In connection with the last question he was asked, "Is it then all right to pray to God to cure people?" His answer was, "Yes, because we don't know God's limits. But, prayer shouldn't be a dictation of what God should do."

On Wednesday an inter-faith panel discussed any questions the students could throw at them. The panel consisted of Rev. Max Houser, Father Daniel Menniti, and Rabbi Samson Shain. Sandy Stover, a Lebanon Valley senior, acted as moderator.

Dutchmen Close Season

The Lebanon Valley Flying Dutchmen ended the 1957-58 basketball season on Saturday night, March 1, by dropping a two point decision to Rider College, 73-71. The Dutchmen will lose four men as a result of graduation: Captain Don Grider, starter Pete McEvoy, Aubrey Kershner, and Bob Dinerman. Kershner and Dinerman were used mainly in reserve roles. The remaining portion of the varsity club was made up of one junior, Bill DeLiberty; two freshmen, Glenn Coates and Steve Wisler; and five sophomores: Barry Skaler, Doug Ross, Sam Butz, Allie Kohler, and Marty Mihalek.

As they compiled a 4-15 record, LVC took down 541 rebounds to the opponents' 813. Leading the team in rebounding was 6' Bill DeLiberty with 128 grabs off the boards. Bill also led the team in shooting with a 49.6% average from the field, while Sam Butz took overall point honors with a total of 276 points on 91 field goals and 94 fouls. To Butz also goes the best mark for foul conversions, 91 for 132 for a 71.2% mark.

Sophomore Barry Skaler took game scoring honors with 26 against Wilkes College. Barry also made the most free-throw attempts in one game converting 12 for 17 against Wilkes.

"THE DUTCHGIRLS"

Dutchgirls End Season With 5-2 Record; Drop Final to M-ville

Lebanon Valley earned its fourth consecutive victory on February 27 by downing Albright's women's basketball team on the Reading court. Leading 11-10 in the first quarter, the LVC girls lengthened their lead in each period until at the final buzzer the score was 50-44.

The Valleyites, a young squad, are developing speed in the backcourt and defensive and offensive coordination. Sally Lynch tossed in 6 field goals and 10 free throws for a high of 22 points, trailed by Eleanor Black's 17 counters. High for the game was 23 points credited to Appleman of Albright.

SHIPPENSBURG

The Lebanon Valley women's basketball team dropped its first league decision on Mar. 1 to Shippensburg State Teacher's College on the Valley court. The local girls drew first blood, but could not seem to score against a team which anticipated their passes in both front and back courts.

Trailing by only two points in the first and second periods, the Dutchgirls were not able to match their opponents shot for shot, and at the end of the game were on the short end of a 36-33 score. The LVC guards played with speed and spirit not evident so far in the season. In the scoring department, Sally Lynch led for Valley and the game with 12. SSTC's Sandy Mengel tallied 10 points for the visitors.

MILLERSVILLE

In one of the most high-scoring games of the season, the Lebanon Valley Dutchgirls defeated Millersville on March 3, 1958, playing on the MSTC court. The LVC girls evidently had difficulty adjusting to the strange court in the first two quarters, when the opponents did the bulk of their scoring.

In the second half, this situation was reversed when Valley's Eleanor Black tossed in 20 of her 29 points, assisted by 7 points from Sally Lynch and 11 from Donna Hill.

The Dutchgirls won the game in the final period when they pulled into a shallow 2--points lead. Final score was 58-56. For the opponents, Judith Wisler totaled 25 points.

ELIZABETHTOWN

Bringing their record to 5 and 1, the Dutchgirls won over Elizabethtown by the score of 46 to 43 on March 8. Winning the game in the fourth period, the team was much aided by the effectiveness of the guards, Beverly Sprenkle, Shirley Angle, and Vonnie Evans, who were able to prevent scoring opportunities of the E-town team.

Lebanon Valley had the advantage in foul-shooting, making half of their shots, while Elizabethtown converted only one-third. Sally Lynch took game honors for her 22 points, followed by Carol Hall of E-town with 18.

MILLERSVILLE

The Lebanon Valley women's basketball team was downed in a heart breaking match with Millersville STC on March 10. Playing nip-and-tuck with the scoring, LVC was never able to gain a sizable lead, although it seemed as if the local girls would come out on top until MSTC player Elizabeth Thompson overwhelmed her guard in the final seconds and tallied the winning basket.

In the last game of the season, Donna Hill came out on top in the scoring division with 25 counters, ably supported by teammates Sally Lynch and Eleanor Black. Showing fine back court work were Shirley Angle and Beverly Sprenkle, with junior varsity player Kathy Patterson putting in a fine game. The final buzzer sounded with the score standing at MSTC 55—LVC 54.

APO-Service to Campus Life

The birth of a new organization is always a thing of curiosity to those outside who sit and watch. In order that ALPHA PHI OMEGA does not remain a thing of mystery to the general campus public, a little background information will be presented.

APO is a national service fraternity composed of college and university men who are or have previously been affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America. Its purpose is to assemble college men in a fellowship designed to promote friendship and offer service in four major fields: students and faculty, youth and community, members of the fraternity, and the nation.

The fraternity offers opportunity for fellowship in the spirit of scouting, opportunity to benefit the campus through service projects, and opportunity to develop leadership through the offices and committee assignments of APO.

The LVC chapter will be known as the PHI PSI chapter of ALPHA PHI OMEGA. Its members have already begun several service projects leading to the attainment of a national charter. They plan to construct a new baseball scoreboard and to supply trash receptacles for general campus use.

The prospective chapter members elected Lowell Mark as president and Ned Heindel as vice president. Additional officers chosen at the meeting on Wednesday night include Joseph Deitz, treasurer; Barry Keinard, recording secretary; John Metka, corresponding secretary; William Derr, historian; Donald Winter, sergeant-at-arms; and Dr. Richard W. Neithamer, chairman of the advisory committee.

Other faculty members who have consented to serve as chapter advisers are Mr. O. Pass Bollinger, Dr. Carl Y. Ehrhart, Mr. T. D. Keller, Mr. Ned Linta, and Dr. Jacob Rhodes.

The chapter is open to all men on campus who were or still are affiliated with the scouting movement. Any interested male students may receive further printed information from either the president or the vice president. (NDH).

Look Around

A colorful May Day is a week and a half in the offing. Our College Lounge with all its shiny polished wood booths and freshly painted walls is very near completion. The campus will soon be aglow inside and out. One situation, however, stands to mar this good impression. What? LITTER!—lunch bags, cigarette butts, test papers—all manner of rubbish. What could be more degrading than a lovely May Court sitting at a heap of our spring collection of garbage? Let's keep LVC's campus clean for May Day festivities. Let's CLEAN UP!

There will be a question and answer period following the address.

Interested members of the faculty and student body are cordially invited.

Agent Anderson is the senior resident agent for Harrisburg. Prior to his association with the FBI, he was a high school teacher and coach. A graduate of Drake University, he served in the Marine Corps in World War II. He has worked in the Cincinnati and Philadelphia offices of the Bureau.

Dr. Badeau Featured In Second Semester Religion-Life Lecture

The second semester Religion in Life Lecture was presented Tuesday, April 15, by Dr. John Stothoff Badeau, President of the Near East Foundation. The lecture, entitled "The Christian and the International World," was one of two given by Dr. Badeau on Lebanon Valley's campus.

The second address was sponsored by the Annville branch of the American Association of University Women in the Audio-Visual Room of the Gossard Memorial Library. Dr. Badeau spoke on some of the current issues in the Near East.

Dr. Badeau's first connections with the Near East began in 1928, when he took up residence in Iraq as a member of the United Mission in Mesopotamia. He served as a builder for the Mission, using his training as a civil and sanitary engineer. Having studied the Arabic language, culture, and history, he became interested in the problem of Arab adjustment to Western culture.

Dr. Badeau became a member of the Staff of the American University at Cairo in 1936. He served as associate professor of philosophy and religion and became dean of the College of Arts and Sciences in 1938. He later became the President of the American University at Cairo and held the post until July 1, 1953, when he was named President of the Near East Foundation.

Eight Students Take Tri Beta Membership

The election of eight students into active membership of the Alpha Zeta Chapter of Beta Beta Beta, National Biological Science Honorary Society, was announced by Dr. Francis Wilson.

Those elected were: Norman Gray, Robert Hipp, Rozellen Yocum, Dale Kreider, Fred Poorman, Rosalind Horn, Martha Rudnicki, and Philip Niosi. All of the initiates met the chapter's requirement of having attained at least a "B" average in three or more biology courses totaling no fewer than ten semester hours.

Seven provisional members were elected. These are students who are currently studying biology but who are not eligible for full membership because they have not yet completed the chapter requirement. These are William Derr, Russell Etter, Keith Wise, Amelia Hartman, John Springer, and Elaine Walter.

Amelia Hartman, Rosalind Horn, Philip Niosi, and David Teates attended the Eastern District, Northeastern Region Convention which covers the area from northern New York through Virginia. The members attended a banquet at which Dr. Ralph Cheney, professor of biology at Brooklyn College, spoke on the subject—"Death—a Living Process."

I HAVE CREATED HERE MY WORLD

I have created here my world; do not be so bold as to suppose you must always appreciate or understand it. It is a fantasy of joyous, senseless things woven in a web, silver-stranded and around a firefly's cool and mist-begotten nimbus—milky phosphorescence in the dusk. It is beyond my own senses much of the time. What right have you, then, to search out, sort, and classify? Go struggle with your own creation.

How bizarre my world is. For and by myself it was created, yet it is a mystery of shadowy wisps upon the evening's blue-green grass in a land of no-others and unknowing. To exist in it is to forfeit rationality, but in its place there is an awakening awareness, as in an opium dream, of the delicious melancholy of former things and other times lit by the light from the cool blue vault of the Northern Sky. It is beyond saying. Leave me to be alone with it and I will understand that within you there is also the unapproachable. (SRS).

Pearl Buck Featured At Phila. Conference

Dr. George G. Struble, Dr. Anna D. Faber, and Professor Samuel M. Bradley attended a three-day conference on College Composition and Communication on March 27-29 at Hotel Benjamin Franklin, Philadelphia.

Concerned with more effective teaching in the field of freshman composition and communication courses, the conference devoted its time to a reappraisal of the aim and content of freshman college courses and to the problem of the growing shortage of composition and communication teachers. Sessions were held in the form of panel discussions and workshops.

The featured speaker of the Saturday luncheon was Pearl Buck, noted author, who spoke on "Writing as a Discovery."

'58 Summer Session Begins Classes June 9

Dr. Carl Y. Ehrhart, Director of the Auxiliary Schools for the college, has announced that Lebanon Valley will offer 44 courses at its twelve week Summer Sessions beginning June 9 and July 21. The courses will be taken from the regular college curriculum and will carry the regular college credits. An additional non-credit course in developmental reading will be offered by the psychology department during both sessions.

There will be a special eight-week science session including a course in general biology and another in general inorganic chemistry.

Arrangements for food and lodging can be made through the offices of the Dean of Men or the Dean of Women.

Valley Hits 1-2 Mark In Baseball Openers

The Lebanon Valley Dutchmen dropped a 4-0 decision to the F & M Presidents in the opening contest of the 1958 baseball season. In the rain-shortened six-inning game Valley couldn't seem to get rolling as they compiled only four hits against two pitchers in the six inning spread.

Norm Hernberg went the distance for Valley. He gave up four runs on 10 hits. In all, the game was rather loosely played with both teams making several miscues.

The only player to get more than one hit for Valley was Pete Meyers who had two singles for the afternoon.

After dropping the opener the Blue and White of LV traveled to Albright on Monday to stop their arch-rival by an 8-4 count and bring their record to 1-1.

Lebanon Valley, behind the pitching of Art Ford, put together 8 hits for 8 runs as the Lions were tamed to the tune of only 4 runs on 11 hits. The Lions had the chances, but just couldn't capitalize.

Leading Lebanon Valley at the plate were Pete Meyers with a 3-run homer and hurler Art Ford and Hal Donley who both contributed two hits.

Ford went all the way in downing the Lions.

LV played host to the Muhlenberg Mules on Wednesday afternoon and dropped their second test in three starts. The shortened game caused by the ever bothersome curfew was one that held plenty of scoring in its six-inning stretch. A total of 15 runners crossed the plate in the six innings as the Mules came up on the top of a 9-6 count.

Bruce Buckwalter started for the Valley and was lifted after giving up 4 runs in the first in favor of Bill DeLiberty who was accredited with the loss.

Awards Made at WAA Banquet; Sally Lynch to be President

Kershner Tops Record As Valley Drops Meet

Capt. Aubrey Kershner broke the individual school scoring record against Franklin and Marshall as he led the Dutchmen in one of their best showings in the last two seasons.

For the first meet of the season there were some very fine distances and times. In amassing the 25 points with which he shattered his old record, Kershner took firsts in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, firsts in the 120-yard high hurdles and the 220-yard low hurdles, and a first in the broad jump. Kershner had times of 10.2 for the century dash, 23.0 for the 220, 17.0 on the high hurdles, and 18.0 on the low hurdles.

The other first for LV was taken by Don Zechman with a 55.6 in the 440. However, Dick Harper tied for a first with Wright of F & M as they both cleared the high bar at 11'0".

Some events that were completely over-shadowed by Kershner's performance are well worth noticing. Coach Linta pointed out that underclassmen took one first, a tie for first, four seconds, and six thirds.

Coach Linta said that with a little more help in the weights there would have been an even closer decision than the 68-58 count that enabled F & M to go home with the win.

Spring Schedules Cited For Intramural Sports

Intramural Director Ned Linta announced that the 1958 spring Intramural Sports schedule got under way on Wednesday, April 16, as Delta Tau Chi met the Legion and the Day Students met Philo in the opening softball games of the season.

Coach Linta also stated that intramural softball would be played according to AAU rules with several exceptions. These exceptions were posted on the Intramural bulletin board with the schedules.

Also listed on the program are golf and tennis. It is desired that anyone wishing to compete in these individual sports sign up as soon as possible.

Miss Bowman and Mr. Linta also said that it would be necessary for all individual competition to be completed before May in preparation for the Sports Night program. Failure to meet this deadline will automatically eliminate the contestant from running for champion of the individual events. This rule also applies to those competing in co-rec sports.

The break between the winter schedule gave the intramural situation a chance to cool off, a welcome relief after the fire-works of the basketball playoff. The Knights almost did the impossible by defeating the Day Students twice and Kalo to win the final.

New Leaders Chosen

At its annual banquet on April 15, the Women's Athletic Association announced the results of the election of officers for the coming collegiate year. Sally Lynch, veteran hockey and basketball player, will succeed Barbara Johnson as president of the organization. Serving with her will be Ruth Howell, vice president; Eleanor Black, secretary; Judie Blank, treasurer; Doris White, Student Faculty representative; and Beverly Hamilton, La Vie representative.

At the banquet, which was attended by the WAA members, the fifty-four initiates, and Miss Betty Jane Bowman, sponsor, the names of the newly-elected sports leaders were announced. They are Doris White, archery; Eleanor Black, badminton; Sally Lynch, basketball; Judy Nangle, dancing; Mary Ann Maguire, golf; Joyce Miller, hiking; Kaye Cassel, hockey; Amy Hartman, miscellaneous; Jackie Simes, ping pong; Peggy Garber, shuffleboard; Brenda Funk, softball; Selina Hill, swimming; Barbara Karlheim, tennis; Kathy Patterson, volleyball; and Judie Blank, stunts and tumbling.

Miss Bowman then presented awards to the girls who had earned enough points to merit them in the organization. Sally Lynch and Veronica Evans, having accumulated 3000 points, received jackets. Ten girls received pins for their achievements. They are Shirley Angle, Eleanor Black, Marion Brooks, Veronica Evans, Ruth Howell, Barbara Klinger, Sally Lynch, Janice Noll, Jackie Simes, and Doris White.

The largest group receiving awards had acquired 1000 points and so qualified for the letter award. Nancy Avates, Diane Arthur, Mary Beaver, Eleanor Black, Judie Blank, Kaye Cassel, Brenda Funk, Sue Hartz, Donna Hill, Judy Leith, Mary Ann Maguire, Becky Meyers, Joan Myers, Wanda Ness, Carole Ott, Kathy Patterson, Audrey Rice, Betty Ritter, Marie Sponsler, Beverly Sprenkle, and Barbara Woodley all received letters.

Lebanon Valley College will welcome spring officially on Saturday, May 3, at 2 p.m. with the 1958 May Day festivities. This year's pageant, entitled "Spectrum," will feature interpretations of the many colors of the rainbow in music and dances.

Reigning as queen of May Day will be Janet Lee Blank of Lehigh, Pa. The maid of honor will be Ruth Reddinger from Cleona. Other court members are Dorothy Jones, Littlestown; Harriet Mickey, Chambersburg; Sally Miller, New Cumberland; Virginia Smedley, West Chester; Elizabeth Speicher, West Lawn; and Mary Elizabeth Swope, Annville.

Pages attending the queen will include Karen Bissinger, Anthony Ebersole, Robbie Marquette, and Gregory Souders.

Following the presentation of the gifts, the queen will be crowned by Mrs. Patricia Lutz Walter, 1957 May Queen.

PAGEANT PORTRAYS COLOR SPECTRUM

This year's pageant tells the story of an artist who relates his conception of what the various colors of the spectrum mean. These ideas serve as a basis for the dances of the program, each of which portrays an individual color.

The opening dance will represent the color of love, green. It will be a waltz done to "Serenade" from the ballet, Les Millions d'Arlequin by Drigo. The student committee for this dance consists of Beverly Frease, Shirley Jacobs, and Jay Work.

Red, which represents anger and strife, will be portrayed by a Devil dance to "Torch Dance." Designers of this dance are Marsha Chaiit, Beverly Hamilton, and Kathleen Patterson.

Sayonara Theme Brings Orient To Junior Prom

Japanese cherry blossoms and oriental scenery will set the atmosphere for "Sayonara," the 1958 Junior Prom. The prom will be the climaxing event of the May Day festivities this Saturday, May 3. The time will be 9-12 p.m. Don Trostle's fifteen piece band will furnish music for dancing.

Lynch Memorial Gymnasium, the scene of the dance, will be decorated Japanese style, with an abundance of cherry blossom trees and Japanese lanterns. In the middle of the floor will be set an exotic oriental garden complete with a quaint high-arched bridge.

At intermission time a special treat is in store for everyone as Jan Hammerschmidt performs a Japanese dance to the song "Sayonara." Turkey sandwiches and punch will be served and all the guests will receive genuine chop sticks as favors.

The next color is blue, which is moody and lonely. It will be interpreted in a modern dance originated by Selina Hill, Mary Ann Maguire, and Judy Nangle. Music for this dance is "May Night" by Selin Palmgren.

Yellow, representing laughter, happiness, and fun will be portrayed by a schottische. Rosalind Horn is the designer. Featured with the dance will be a clown act done by Kaye Cassel, Merritt Copenhaver, and Kenneth Longenecker.

The next dance represents purple, the jealous and passionate color. The music for this is "Intermezzo" from Sigurd Jorsalfar Suite by Edward Grieg. Janet Hammerschmidt, Barbara Karlheim, Rosalyn Knapp and Joan Stockbridge are the choreographers for this dance.

Pure white is portrayed in a delicate ballet featuring soloists Janet Hammerschmidt and Barbara Karlheim. The former is the designer of the dance. Music is "La Lisonjera" by Chaminade.

Keister Men Tops On Campus

A rousing cheer is in order for a rousing group of people on this campus. Reference is made to the very successful open house staged by the freshmen men of Keister Hall on Saturday, April 26. Here is a group of congenial students who have put "commune" back into the word community.

Often our campus is referred to as a college community. But how often do the men and women living on this campus actually get together for friendly, informal activities at which no one is afraid to be himself and to have a good time? Seldom is seen such spirit as that exhibited last Saturday. These "boys" (as we upperclassmen like to call them) pooled their resources and came up with refreshments in the form of orange punch, potato chips, and pretzels, and with entertainment in the form of some jovial, non-selfconscious dancing in one of the dining halls, which they went to the trouble of clearing out (and later replacing the tables, chairs, and table settings). Every one of them cleaned up his room especially for the occasion. Special invitations were issued to everyone the boys could get their hands on.

Not one person who attended had anything but praise for the boys' successful efforts. Congratulations are in order to these boys for showing a socially slow campus what a good time can be had with the folks here on our home campus.

Dutchmen Trounce Rutgers 15-9; Bow To Moravian And Scranton

Ford Cops Second Win

The Valley Dutchmen gained a victory on April 22 by scoring more runs than they had hits. After getting 11 runs on six hits to down E-town, the Dutchmen got 15 runs on nine hits to triumph over Rutgers University by a 15-9 margin. Art Ford, the only Valley pitcher to finish a game, went the route for the second time in getting his second win in as many tries.

Leading the Valley attack at the plate were John Ollinger and Bill DeLiberty. Ollinger collected three hits, a triple, a double, and a single in five trips to the plate. DeLiberty hit out a double and a single in five trips.

Ford gathered fourteen strike-outs over the nine-inning spread.

ROSS DROPS 8-4 DECISION

The Dutchmen traveled to Bethlehem to play Moravian College on April 25. The Valleyites, again plagued by a lack of hits, dropped an 8-4 decision to the strong Moravian nine.

Doug Ross was given the loss after going for three and a third innings. Ross, during his stretch, was hampered by lack of control and errors committed at crucial times.

The six hits accumulated by the Dutchmen were gotten only after five hitless innings hurled by Moravian pitcher, Hunter Matthews. A five-hit rally in the seventh inning gave the Dutchmen three runs, but these were not enough to keep the blue and white from absorbing their third defeat.

SCRANTON HANDS VALLEY FOURTH DEFEAT

After spending the night in Bethlehem the Dutchmen traveled to Scranton where they took the fourth one on the chin because of weak sticks. At the plate the team could collect only four hits in 29 trips to the plate, a rather meager offering. While Scranton collected only six hits in 24 trips, they converted five Valley errors into three unearned runs.

After pitching seven innings and giving up six runs on four hits, Steve Wisler, who was credited with the loss, was lifted in favor of Art Ford (2-0) who pitched one hit, no run ball in the remaining two frames. Wisler's record now stands at 1-1.

Leading the Valley offensively was Bill DeLiberty who had two singles for the day; Les Miller and Joe Toy also chipped in one apiece for total Valley output of 4 for the day.

Late in the last inning with two down and the sack filled the Valley saw their last hope die with a loud bang as pinch hitter Hal Donley hit a long shot toward right field screen that was corralled by a spectacular leaping catch by E. Keen, the Scranton right fielder. This culminated the fourth defeat in seven tries for the Valley as the final count was 6-2.

Track Team Travels To Gettysburg College

LVC track team traveled to Gettysburg on Tuesday, April 15, to meet the Bullets in the track team's second encounter of the year. The Dutchmen made the trip only to come home on the short end of an 89½ to 36½ score.

The only first taken by the Dutchmen during the afternoon was won by John Salem with his victory in the 880. Dick Harper managed to get a first place tie with Coble of G-burg with a height of 10'6" in the pole vault. LV took half of the second places awarded and half of the thirds, but the margin accumulated by the speedy Bullets in the winning of 12 out of the 14 events was just too much.

Coach Linta's lightclads took another defeat on Saturday, April 19, when they played host to the Dickinson College track team. The Dickinson team copped the majority of first, second, and third places awarded in amassing their 85½ points to the Dutchmen's 40½.

One shining ray for the blue and white was the achievement shown by several underclassmen. Vern Magnusen, freshman speedster, took a first in the 100 with a 10.6. Fred Meiselman, freshman weight man, also turned in a first in the shot and a second in the discus. Rusty Owens took a second in the shot. Don Zechman turned in two thirds in the 220 and 440.

Capt. Aubrey Kershner also deserves a word of praise for turning in one of his sterling performances with two firsts and three seconds. The winning events were the 120 high hurdles and the 220 low hurdles. The seconds came in the 100, 220, and broad jump.

In their first triangular meet of the year LV placed third behind Albright and Juniata, in that order. The point spread was 69½, 49½, and 35.

Lebanon Valley took first in the 100 and discus with Aubrey Kershner and Fred Meiselman taking the honors. Other than a second in the 220 by Kershner, a second in the 440 by Zechman, and another second in the 120 highs won by Kershner, LV had only a few scattered thirds and fourths.

U. S. Marine Corps To Conduct Interviews

Officer Procurement representatives of the U. S. Marine Corps will conduct interviews at Lebanon Valley College on May 5.

Captain Leon N. Angelo, USMC, officer in charge, stated that applications will be considered for the Marines' Platoon Leaders Class and for the Officer Candidate Course. Both are reserve officer training programs which lead to a commission in either the ground or aviation components of the Corps.

Intramural Directors Plan Sports Festival

Miss Betty Jane Bowman and Mr. Ned Linta announced that plans for the gala sports festival—Intramural Sports Night—to be held on May 8, are being completed. The Intramural directors said that it will be well worth while to be on hand since many of the intramural championships will be decided at this time.

Coach Linta announced that he had obtained the services of Tiny Parry, sports editor of the Lebanon Daily News.

Among the crowns to be presented will be one going to Dee Arthur and Vince Crudele for winning the Co-rec bowling honors. Vince will also receive the crown for the men's individual bowling championship; he won over Frank Argenziano.

In handball Rusty Owens defeated Don Grider, the 1957 runner-up, to go into the finals against Joe Nassaur. Also in the four wall court Jack MacDonald will risk his 1957 crown as he prepares to meet Les Miller.

Another 1957 champion, Sam McLinn, will defend his table tennis crown against Howie Good. Sam will also be in the running for the badminton crown. The badminton finalists must yet be settled. Among the contenders are Don Murray, Barry Keinard, Rusty Owens, Charlie Wernert, and McLinn.

In the table-tennis tournament Shannon-Reddinger and Hecker-Hernette have the inside track. Wernert-Thomas and Filmore-Nauble look like the best bets in the Co-rec badminton finals.

As a resume of the team sports the Knights, winners of the basketball league, will meet the Intramural All-Stars. Philo will be awarded the crown for the bowling championship.

To top the evening off there will be a volleyball game between championship Kalo and the Faculty All-Stars.

Put aside Thursday evening, May 8, for Intramural Sports Night.

Senior Class Plans Gift of Park Benches

At a recent senior class meeting it was decided that the gift of the class to the school should be one of durability and usefulness. With these qualifications in mind the class discussed several proposed projects and the donation of park benches to the school was approved by a nearly unanimous vote.

The senior class has decided to purchase twenty-four benches and has contracted a local lumber manufacturer to construct the benches. They will be a combination cement-lumber type arrangement so that they will withstand the elements of nature and frustrate any attempts at vandalism.

At the present time the class has made arrangements to have five of the benches constructed. After consulting President Miller, they decided to have the remaining nineteen constructed as the need arises.

Hall Prexies Chosen

Kathleen Patterson, better known as "Kathy" to her fellow Sheridan Hallers, has been chosen by the Resident Women's Student Government Association as Freshman Girl of the Year.

The girl granted this award is selected as the student most representative of the qualities of scholarship, future potentiality, cooperation, attitude, and citizenship.

A native of Bergenfield, New Jersey, Kathy is an elementary education major. On her list of activities are SEA, SCA, varsity basketball, as well as WAA. Among her friends Kathy is known for her thoroughness, responsibility, and all-round dependability.

In addition to this honor, Kathy will serve as first president of the new women's dorm which will take over the present Alumni Building.

This new dormitory represents a big step toward more student responsibility in living centers. Sally Lynch, a senior from Chambersburg, will be the first student counsellor and will work with Kathy in supervising the dormitory. There will be no hall proctor as such, since the senior counsellor will perform the functions of the head resident.

Sally is president of WAA, treasurer of Delphian, Student-Faculty representative for Jiggerboard, and treasurer of Student-Faculty Council. She also served as one of the student coordinators for the May Day program.

The Alumni offices will move to the

Dr. Miller was honored for his service as state chairman of the student work committee for six years and for his leadership, which has led to a revitalized program of state YMCA on campuses of Pennsylvania universities and colleges.

To the Seniors in the Department of Music

(Editor's note: The following is a special message from Dr. Jean O. Love, head of the Department of Psychology).

It has come to my attention that there is still a misunderstanding among seniors in the Music Department regarding the time limits on the Graduate Record Examination due to the discrepancy between the time limit of 3 hours indicated on the test booklet, and the time limit of 1¾ hours indicated in the directions, not from the college administration, but from the Educational Test Service, the bureau which constructed and standardized the test. To resolve this discrepancy, a long distance call was placed to the Educational Testing Service, which instructed us to limit the test in music to 1¾ hours in accordance with the manual of directions. You were so informed after the test was about twenty minutes underway, and the shorter time limit was adhered to.

The test bureau determined your ranking on the test by comparing the other score you made in the 1¾ time limit with scores made by senior music majors in other colleges taking the same test in the same amount of time. Since your score could only be interpreted by making such a comparison, the use of the standard test procedure including adherence to a standard time limit of 1¾ hours for the music test was mandatory.

Other tests, as for example the test in psychology, were interpreted similarly. That is, the score of an LVC senior major in psychology was interpreted or transformed into a ranking by comparing it with scores of seniors in other colleges taking the same three hour test in psychology.

I regret the confusion caused by the discrepancy between the time limit on the test booklet and that in the manual of directions, which was confirmed as being correct by the bureau distributing the tests. However, the decision to use the shorter time limit was necessitated by the way in which your scores were to be interpreted. It was not a decision resulting from whim, nor was it arrived at arbitrarily by myself, the college, or the testing bureau. You were not discriminated against, and your test results are valid and reliable insofar as administration of the test could make them so.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Levin have presented a plaque to be placed on Lynch Memorial Gymnasium in honor of Dr. Clyde Alvin Lynch, President of LVC, 1932-1950.

LVC Senior Awarded
Graduate Assistantship

Jerald Bachman, a senior at Lebanon Valley College, has received a $1250 assistantship in the graduate department of psychology of the University of Pennsylvania. He will be working for a master's degree and will probably continue his study toward a doctor's degree in psychology.

Jerry will act as a laboratory assistant for undergraduate classes and as a research assistant under Dr. Seymour Feshbach. Mrs. Bachman will work as a nurse at the University of Pennsylvania Hospital.

LVC Shares In Grant
From Steel Foundation

The U. S. Steel Foundation, New York, has announced that it will extend a grant of $2 million dollars to 655 of the nations' colleges and educational groups. Among those schools sharing in the grant are ten midstate institutions, including Bucknell University, Dickinson College, Elizabethtown College, Juniata College, Lebanon Valley College, Lycoming College, Penn State University, Susquehanna University, and Wilson College.

Roger M. Blough, foundation board of trustees chairman, said the aims of the program include the encouragement of the "quality improvement of education and provide opportunity for individual development of scholars through fellowships."

College Church YF Plans New Program

The officers of the Youth Fellowship have initiated new plans for the organization, which will go into effect next September. A college section is now being planned to try to interest more of the LVC students in participating in meetings. During the devotional part of the fellowship hours, both groups will be together. For the remainder of the evening the two groups will separate and have individual programs.

A president of the college section will be elected, and a program committee, with rotating membership, will plan the weekly programs. In case there should be speakers and recreational meetings, the two groups will work together.

If you have been active in your Youth Fellowship at home, but have been lackadaisical since leaving home, or if you have never attended meetings of this sort, it would be wise if you did not attend the meetings at the College Church, because you will be so interested that you will continue to attend the meetings. If you want to be bored, have no thrill in your life, be isolated from the rest of the world, and generally miserable, do not attend the Youth Fellowship meetings.

P.S.—Sunday night the group is traveling to Mt. Gretna for the last meeting of this season. The program has been planned by college students and will include a short address by Professor Ellis R. McCracken. Refreshments will be served, so come and have fun.

Musical Notes

The Lebanon Valley College Glee Club will present a Spring Concert, assisted by the Women's Ensemble and the Orchestra, on Tuesday, May 20, at 8:30 p.m. in Engle Hall. This program is being presented as a memorial to Dr. M. Claude Rosenberry, who was Chief of Music Education in the state of Penna.

All proceeds will supplement funds contributed by the In and About Harrisburg Music Educator's Association to establish an award in his name to be granted to an outstanding senior in Music Education at LVC who plans to teach in Penna.

The program will include "Crucifixus" by Antonio Caldara, Scarlatti's "Alleluia," and Motet (Psalm LI) by Brahms, conducted by James M. Thurmond.

Jack Stearns will direct "Ave Maria" by Verdi, "Mountain Silence" by Delius will be conducted by Helen Epting, and Sue Zimmerman directs "Seek not Afar for Beauty" by Sateren. The Glee Club and Symphony Orchestra will combine to present "La Damoiselle Elue" by Debussy, featuring Charlotte Pierson, soprano, and Mary Elizabeth Swope, mezzo soprano; and "Stomp Your Foot" by Copland. The last two numbers will be under the direction of Thomas Lanese.

Admission for adults is $1.00 and $.50 for students.

POLITICAL SCIENCE CLUB

State Senator Douglas Elliott of Franklin County was the guest speaker at a dinner sponsored by the Pol Sci Club. This was the second of two such dinners held by the club with the purpose of showing the advantage of joining one of the two parties. The first dinner was devoted to the Republican Party. Senator Elliott's speech was entitled "Why You Should Register Republican."

The club received a small grant from the Citizenship Clearing House connected with the University of Pennsylvania which enabled them to charge much less for the dinners. These dinners are held to aid the students and are not money-making affairs. The latest dinner was held at Dutch Diner on May 9, with thirty couples in attendance.

Gene Layser was re-elected President of the Political Science Club for the 1958-59 term. The other officers were: Phil Feather, vice president; Johanna Hansen, secretary; Darryl Myers, treasurer; James Greenwood, Student-Faculty representative; and Wayne Hummer, I.C.G. Chairman.

OUTLOOK

With metal arms we grope the skies
That only wild men and philosophers once sought.

A blind man tapping on the street,
Expanding and correcting what before was taught.

Horses have no business climbing trees.
An ox is never caught with eyes turned to the skies.

But man will leave his given place
And travel to the stars in mystic metal guise.

My only wish is in some way
To help a new Columbus leave that foreign shore.

And when his goal is reached at last
My single comment to this task will be, "more, more."

EXAMS

Two weeks left! can it be true?
Exams creep up so fast!
Seems like I just took some tests,
Could so much time have passed?

I'll start to study right away,
But first I've some things to do.
Go downtown, see that girl, play some cards,
Talk with the boys a while, too.

One more day until exams?
I don't know where to start.
There's one thing left to do to pass,
Sit next to some one who's smart!

Come One, Come All!

Have you been lounging lately? The new College Lounge is now open for business. The final touches were completed so that it could open on May 3, May Day at Lebanon Valley College.

Open to all students of the College, the lounge provides entertainment in the form of a juke box for dancing, ping pong table, pin-pool, and a "shuffle-alley" game.

In the food line you can ask Harold, Bill, Dick, Jim, or Tex (the boys working there), for a sundae, ice cream, a milk shake, soft drink, milk, chips, or tasty cakes—no sarsaparilla, sorry. If you have a headache after a particularly trying exam, they have aspirin, too.

The booths are pine-panelled, and there is plenty of room to chit-chat or dance.

The hours under which the lounge is operating for the present time are: Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 10:30; Saturday 9 a.m. to 12 and 7:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Although no hot food is now being served, plans are being made to serve soup and sandwiches next fall.

Officers elected were Kenneth Nelson, vice president; Joyce Martin, recording secretary; Louise Gay, corresponding secretary; James Bustard, treasurer; Janet Zuse, public relations chairman, and La Vie representative; Kathy Patterson, Student-Faculty representative; and Ralph Ziegenfuss, Walter Smith, and Marcia Paullin, members at large.

Kershner Qualifies In MA Championship

Aubrey Kershner entered the 100 yard dash and the 220 low hurdles in the Middle Atlantic Track Championships at West Chester State Teachers College. He ran against record breaking men, and qualified with Ira Davis, LaSalle's Olympian, in the 100 yard dash with a time of 10.1 seconds, his best of the season. He placed fourth in both events. Coach Linta feels he would have scored in both events had he not hurt his back in the 220 low hurdles trials. His time in the hurdles was 25.0 seconds.

Wig and Buckle, the dramatic group on campus, elected George Smith as their new president. Taking over the duties of secretary is Carolyn Schairer. Elected as treasurer was Meg White.

After having two contests cancelled due to inclement weather, the Lebanon Valley Dutchmen travelled to Wilkes-Barre, only to drop a 2-0 decision to the Wilkes Colonels. This game, like the previous two, was also plagued by bad weather and finally had to be called after six innings of play.

In going the six innings, loser Norm Hernberg gave up only three hits. Both of the runs off Hernberg came in the bottom of the third on a walk, an error, and a single for a total of one earned and one unearned run.

The Dutchmen could collect only three hits during the six innings played. Les Miller, Darry Myers, and Bill Kristich each smacked out one single.

LV 2—MILLERSVILLE 1

The Dutchmen pulled one out of the fire through an umpire's decision in downing Millersville S.T.C. by a 2-1 count, as Art Ford was credited with his 3 wins against no losses.

Ford was enjoying a 2-1 lead when the Millersville team got to him for three runs on three hits to go into the lead. With the bases loaded, the Millersville pitcher, Price, hit a sky high pop into shallow left, which the umpire ruled an infield fly. The decision was hotly contested by the Millersville team and coach. When the side was finally retired, the count stood at 4-2 with Millersville out in front.

Joe Toy was the LV lead-off batter in the bottom half of the seventh. Toy, on a one ball, one strike count, hit a towering foul down the first base line. Toy then collided with the Millersville first baseman as he made the catch. A fight between the two ensued, and both benches emptied as everyone got into the fracas. After the umpire had restored order and ejected Toy and Hoover, tempers flared again and both teams were at it once more.

At this point Umpire Beard called the game and declared LV the winner, due to the fact that the inning was not completed, the score, therefore, reverting to the inning before.

WEST CHESTER 12—LV 1

Lebanon Valley travelled to West Chester on Saturday, May 10, only to be trampled by a 12-1 score. A total of three W.C. pitchers held the Dutchmen to two hits and one run over the nine inning stretch. Norm Hernberg in the three innings that he pitched gave up seven runs. Steve Wisler gave up five runs in the following six innings. It was Hernberg's fourth defeat of the season.

The Dutchmen's only run came in an inside-the-park home run by Tom Reinhart in the fifth inning. The only other LV hit was a single by relief hurler Steve Wisler. The defeat at the hands of West Chester brought the season record to 4-6.
